I am writing to thank you for VIIF 2003. We all had a great time and were very excited what we saw there.

When we were invited to participate in VIIF 2003 we immediately wanted to get on board as we saw this as an opportunity to share with other groups in our region, to community build, and to participate in a wonderful first class event that would showcase improvisation in a positive light. Once there, we were proven right! The number of groups from the area was impressive, the audiences were great, and we were treated tremendously well. We found the festival to be organized, professional, well humored and fun.

As you know, UP has a great deal of experience in these kinds of events. The foundation for Unexpected Productions was laid when TheatreSports™ was first performed in Seattle in 1983. Unexpected Productions moved into its own home in the Pike Place Market in May 1991. Today, we are producing TheatreSports™, now in its 21st year, as well as long form shows exploring the newest forms of improvisational based theater. UP has traveled all over the world to great acclaim and developed a worldwide reputation for quality. We were very proud and pleased to be part of VIIF 2003. We would be more than willing and hope to be able to participate in VIIF 2004. I hope you will consider us.

Regards,
